Q: Cannot import Azure Function App package from VS 2017 to VS 2019 I've created a project with VS 2017 vNext and then deployed it into Azure portal with Azure function project. I've tried to make simple hello world function in VS 2017 and it worked. Now, I've opened VS 2019, I can still create and export.NET Core projects into Azure function templates, but when I open generated project it is OK. When I try to import a package from my Azure function project into the same Azure function project, I get the following error: Cannot import Azure Function package. The imported project "Azure Functions/BindingRedirects.csproj" was not found. Confirm that the path in the package matches the path in the project Since the package was working in VS 2017, I assume this is a bug. Any help will be greatly appreciated. A: I've resolved this issue. The problem was that I have two function projects in my project: one created by Azure portal and another created by Visual Studio 2017. I've deleted second one and now it works fine. –8 debt crisis –76 deletion –80 denialism –2 depression, credit devaluation dictatorships diversification, dividends diversity of
